TO APPLY SCIENCE IN PAROLE SYSTEM IN STATE OF ILL.

Study Of Parole Records of Thousands Of Released Men Is Guide

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—The hand of science will replace the hit and miss system in the granting of paroles to Illinois convicts in the future as result of the adoption by the state board of pardons and paroles of a plan based on statistical "expectancy" tables similar to those used by life insurance companies.

John Landesco, member of the board, revealed the plan yesterday and said it had been developed by Prof. E. W. Burgess, University of Chicago sociologist, after a study of the parole records of 3,000 prisoners released from Joliet, Menard and Pontiac.

In its application 25 factors are considered, including previous criminal record of the prisoner, age when committed, time served in prison, prison record, employment record, intelligence, type of crime type of community and home.

The records studied by Prof Burgess disclosed that farm boys and immigrants were good risks for parole while underworld characters from cities, and older drug addicts were liable to violate privileges.

The plan his already been adopted by the state of New Jersey and is being applied informally in Minnesota.

Admiral Burke Is Hero Of Disaster At Sea On Sunday

Rear Admiral Burke almost joined the ranks of those immortal sea-faring valients who go to a heroic death in the briny deep rather that forsake their ship in time of disaster. Sunday afternoon, off the Lowell Park coast his good ship "False Teeth" was rammed by another scow and it was only the expert seamanship of the Admiral that prevented a major disaster.

Admiral Burke and his crew of two small boys were on an expedition headed for Lowell Park and were nearing their desitnation when the crash occurred. We do not know whether a look-out was posted or who was on watch, but something evidently had engaged the attention of the navigator and also the skipper of another clammer was thinking about something else, because the other craft stove a hole in the hull of the Admiral's boat. Standing knee-deep in bilge water, the Admiral maneuvered his stricken craft slowly up to the wharf, much to the relief of the cheering multitude on the shore. He saved the lives of his crew and salvaged his yacht, the good ship "False Teeth."

T. P. Nelson, Well Known Wholesaler, Died In Peoria

Officers of Dixon Fruit Co. have learned of the death of T. P. Nelson of Peoria, who is interested in the local company, at Peoria early yesterday morning as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident three weeks ago.

Mr. Nelson was about 70 years old and was well known in the wholesale produce and fruit trade in northern Illinois, being president of the Twin City Produce Co. of Sterling and interested in similar enterprises in Freeport, Ottawa Streator, LaSalle and Peoria.

He is survived by his wife, who was also injured in the accident which proved fatal to him, but who has been discharged from the hospital. Mrs. Nelson was driving the car at the time of the accident, and in trying to evade a collision with another car went into the ditch, their auto turning over.

A machine, resembling a giant typewriter four feet high, which is said to be able to do the work of 30 bank clerks with only one girl to handle it, is being tested in London.

Fifty years ago, the annual death rate in New York City was 30 per 1000 of population; today, it is about 12 per 1000.

Approximately 24,000,000 tons of limestone are used annually in the United States, chiefly in the smelting of iron ores.

Dixon Citizen Pays $122.50 For 49 Gal. Of Water

A record price to be paid for water was charged a citizen of Dixon Monday evening according to a report reaching the office of Sheriff Fred Richardson today, the figure running to a high point of $122.50 for 49 gallons of an inferior grade of water. A citizen of Amboy is said to have paid the sum of $12.50 for five gallons of the same liquid, the report said, and again the remark of the once famous showman, P. T. Barnum is recalled.

A stranger appeared in Dixon Monday evening and visited a citizen who was a former alcohol peddler, the report goes. He represented himself as having 50 gallons of a very high grade of alcohol in his car which he desired to dispose of quickly, and stated that he had been referred to the Dixonite as a likely purchaser. The stranger produced a one-gallon can of alcohol and offered generous samples, which indicated his product to be all that he claimed for it. He even made a special price of $2.50 per gallon as an inducement to dispose of his entire load, that he might return home without delay. Another customer had ordered the lot but was unable to raise the ready cash in payment, he said.

Borrowed the Money

The Dixonite was in a very similar position regarding the cash but sensing a rare bargain of a high grade product, prevailed upon a friend in Amboy to take five gallons and he wastted no time in borrowing the necessary $110 to finance the remainder of the deal. With the payment of the cash, the 49 gallons of supposed alcohol was hurriedly unloaded and hidden while the stranger exercised equal haste in leaving Dixon and was gracious enough to leave the remainder of the one gallon can which had been used as a sample. When the purchasers of the load had recovered from their excitement and jubilation over having struck such a rare bargain they opened other cans, only to discover that they had paid the stranger $122.50 for 49 gallons of water.

Police Puzzled At Slaying Of Woman On Chicago Street

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—The slaying of a neatly dressed woman as she struggled with a man who jumped from a passing automobile as she was walking along a south side residential street puzzled police today.

The woman, apparently about 35 years of age, was struck in the back by one of the two bullets her assailant fired and she died shortly after being taken to a hospital last night by two housewives who witnessed the slaying.

The man fled to the automobile and joined two companions. Witnesses were divided in their descriptions of the men, several declaring they were Negroes. The motive of the attack was believed to be robbery as no purse was found.

REORGANIZATION OF MID WEST IS NOW UNDER WAY

Election Of New President Is Announced By Receivers

Another step toward the reorganization of the Middle West Utilities Company in which many Dixonites are interested, is seen in the election of D. C. Green, prominent utility man, as president and chief operating executive the announcemet of his election being made late yesterday afternoon by the receivers for the former Insull holding company.

Leaves Electric Bond and Share

Mr. Green is known as a high salaried man in the utility field and has resigned as vice president of the Electric Bond and Share Company, eastern utility chain, to accept the Middle West post. He has been vice president of the eastern company for the last four years and prior to that time was an operating executive of various properties of the H. M. Byllesby & Company group.

Grover C. Neff, who has been serving as president under the receivers for the last year, has been named president of the Wisconsin Power & Light Co. Prior to his appointment as president of the parent company he was chief executive of the Wisconsin subsidiary.

Build Up Management

Selection of Mr. Green was announced by Receivers Chas. A. McCollough and Edward N. Hurley after a meeting of Middle West directors.

His appointment as president is the most important addition to personnel made since the company went into receivership 15 months ago. Several other important additions to the company's staff have been made in the last year. The purpose behind the changes made by the receivers, it is said, is to build up a permanent management organization that will be able to carry on when and if the corporation emerges from receivership.

One of the important additions to the organization early this year was the appointment of George C. Mathews as vice president in charge of rate matters. Mathews was chief examiner of the Wisconsin Public Service commission at the time of his appointment and had served with the commission for twenty-two years.

Last Complaint Is Heard By Board Of Review: Plan Trip

The Lee county Board of Review this morning received a communication from the State Tax Commission ordering a thorough investigation of Lee county corporations who have failed to file a capital stock tax return. The State Tax Commission orders a complete investigation of the list of 36 corporations in the county and a report of the Board of Review of their findings. The list contains names of several corporations which are now extinct or have moved out of the county. The order requires that all corporations file schedules with the Board of Review except those who are exempted and file their schedules direct with the State Tax Commission.

The date for the filing of complaints with the board expired yesterday and no more appeals will be heard by the board. An itinerary is now being arranged and the board will start the latter part of this week on a tour of the county checking up on land valuations in the various townships.

Members of the Whiteside county Board of Review paid a visit to the Lee county board last week, comparing the systems of operation being used.

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—The artificial larynx that Fred Bendlage, Streator, Ill., had installed in his throat three weeks ago is so successful that his doctors, Joseph C. Beck and M. Reese Guttman, say he has already learned to talk with it.

Removal of the larynx nature supplied Bendlage with was made necessary by a cancer. He has returned to his work.

SHOWERS COOL MIDWEST: EAST STILL SIZZLES

Over Hundred Deaths Reported On Eastern Seaboard

(By The Associated Press.)

The east continued to sizzle today as a torrid spell went into its fifth day with a death toll in the neighborhood of 100. The rest of the country was fairly comfortable and there was a word of cheer from eastern forecasters who promised fair and cooler weather tonight.

The middle west was generally cool after night showers. The southwest was cloudy and fairly cool. Temperatures on the Pacific coast were normal and the Salt Lake region had showers to break a 25-day stretch of above-top weather.

Continuance of the eastern heat tried tempers, made sleeping next to impossible, endangered weak hearts and induced millions to crowd beaches and water resorts. Temperatures of the day in the metropolitan area averaged higher than yesterday by 5 degrees. The thermometer registered 90 at 9 A. M. CST.

A half-a-dozen more deaths in the area brought the total for the last few days to more than two score. Reports from other heat-oppressed sections of New England and the Atlantic seaboard states indicated the grand total was very near the 100 mark.

ROUGH STUFF AT WORLD'S FAIR MIDWAY STOPPED

Mayor Kelly Stopped Nude Dancing In Fair Concessions

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—Nude dancing at A Century of Progress is at an end.

Dancing in the nude at various shows at the Oriental Village and other places along the midway at the World's Fair was halted by the various concessionaires last night.

Their action followed an edict by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who visited the Fair the other night and saw a "Lady Godiva" ride a camel and a woman dancing without clothing. He subsequently issued an order that shows which he described as "indecent" be eliminated or the places would be closed.

The concessionaires, were warned they'd have to tone down the performances, and as a result crowds that flocked into the Fair grounds saw a fan dancer dance in trunks and a brazziere instead of just fans.

One show in the "Slums of Cairo" was closed by a policeman after an investigator had watched a performance of a female impersonator.

The mayor's move was praised by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

"Springtime In The Rockies" Is To Be Repeated Thursday

The home talent play, "Springtime in the Rockies" will be repeated at the Assembly auditorium tomorrow, (Thursday) night. At a previous presentation of this play the lack of sound amplifying equipment made it difficult for some of the audience to hear. Arrangements have been made to correct such a condition and the play will be produced free of charge so that those who were unable to hear before will be able to enjoy the play this time. There will be no charge for admission but a silver offering will be taken up. Proceeds from the previous production were turned over to the local welfare association any anything received from the silver offering over the actual expenses of the evening, will also be given to local charity work.

A system of loud speakers will be installed.

Drought Conditions Similar To Those Of 1930; One Of Smallest Corn Crops On Record In Sight

Washington, Aug. 2— (AP) — Drought conditions with effects closely resembling those of 1930 were visualized today by the Weather Bureau through the nation's corn belt, with weather conditions grown steadily worse since the government report of July 1 indicated one of the four smallest corn crops in 32 years.

A continued lack of rain marked the past week, adding to the damage to corn. Production indicated on July 1 was 2,384,000,000 bushels with few factors of improvement since that time.

"With continued insufficient moisture over most of the principal corn producing sections of the country conditions are becoming progressively more unfavorable," the bureau said.

The late crop is deteriorating while unfavorable dryness continues in northern Indiana. In Illinois early corn in localities favored by rain is earing well but in most places deterioration continues with permanent damage in some sections.

Alleged Embezzler Hitch-Hikes From St. Louis To Nashua, N. H. To Save Extradition Expenses

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 2—(AP)—Raymond C. Cross of Manchester proved today he was a man of his word when he surrendered at police headquarters after hitch hiking from St. Louis alone to save Nashua the expense of sending officers for him.

Tomorrow Cross will be arraigned on a charge of embezzling $1,000 from the Holbrook-Marshall Company, wholesale grocers.

Cross a salesman for the company disappeared a month ago and surrendered in St. Louis last Friday.

Chief Irving Goodwin of the local force decided reluctantly that in these days of retrenchment, it would be too expensive to send a couple of officers to bring him back.

Goodwin suggested that they release Cross if the fugitive promised to return to Nashua on his own. Cross assented.

Strange Deaths Of Man Who Got Rich In Cheap Hotels, Clerk Revealed

Unusual Drama of Life Told In Hundreds Of Bullet Holes

St. Louis, Aug. 2 —(AP)— The hundreds of bullet holes and the seared walls of a "15-cents-a-night" hotel today told of the strange deaths of its wealthy owner and a former clerk.

Samuel Murta, 77, who amassed a fortune estimated as high as a half a million dollars through the Erie house and two similar hostelries, was slain in the basement of the hotel late yesterday.

Murta's throat had been slashed, apparently with a hacksaw, and police, suspecting George Perry, the clerk, engaged in a spectacular 45-minute machine gun battle before capturing him, fatally wounded.

Police today advanced the theory that either revenge or robbery was the motive for the killing of Murta. They pointed out that the hotel proprietor declined to reemploy Perry when he returned after serving a workhouse term, and also that he was known to have carried large sums of money. Perry had but 4 cents when taken.

When Murta's body was found suspicion was directed at Perry as the 43-year-old ex-clerk had been seen entering the basement with his former employer and friend, and had left alone.

While police were summoned, Perry barricaded himself in his second story room. In response to Sergeant's order to come out and surrender, Perry fired four times with his revolver, narrowly missing some of the policemen.

At the battle began, hundreds of persons crowded the streets adjacent to the hotel although the police sought to restrain the curious in the interest of safety.

Spotted By Mirror

The police employed a large mirror, holding it out of a window so they could view Perry's room without exposing themselves. Detective A. W. Bean located the suspected slayer and, with a burst of 25 machine gun bullets, he dropped him, mortally wounded.

Tear gas bombs, used in a futile effort to dislodge the suspected slayer, set fire to the hotel, doing about $1,000 damage.

Although little known in St. Louis, Mutra had been housing the near-down-and-outers of the city for almost half a century. Despite his wealth, he always lived in one of his hotels in the shabby fringe of the downtown district. He did not own an automobile. He wore a collar and tie only on Sunday and special occasions. He did his own bookkeeping.

Privation Killed Child Of Trooper Looking For A Job

Fort Madison, Ia., Aug. 2—(AP)—Little Rosemary Wilson is dead after two months of bare living on a Mississippi river boat. And the story of her short span of life may well parallel old narratives of the covered wagon days when the plains country first saw white men and women.

Her father, Fred Wilson, is a vaudeville trouper. Both he and his wife were born at Louisville, Ky., and there he started his three-a-day career. Little Rosemary, had six brothers and sisters.

Trouping is a grand profession, Wilson says, but who wants troupers to play on hollow boards in empty theaters? The rent was due, the cupboard was bare, the "kids" needed clothings and shoes —and the booking offices offered nothing.

An old automobile was the height of the family's assets. The car was sold and two boats purchased, and the Wilsons packed up —for a trip down the Mississippi.

Rosemary was born on the river in one of the boats. She came into the world on a dark night—and lived during darker days. The sterile starchiness of a nurse's uniform was far away from the forlorn little boat. Only the simplest of medical treatment was available.

Last Friday the little girl was taken ashore here. Kindly police officers and a King's Daughter nurse took her to a hospital where doctors said "malnutrition."

Yesterday she died—her river voyage ended. The tiny body will be buried in Fort Madison. Then, the Wilsons say, they'll continue their trip downstream— "As Dad looks for a job."

"I don't want charity and I don't want to loaf," he said choking back tears at the hospital. "I want honest work and plenty of it. I've provided a good home for my family before. I'll do it again.

U. S. SUPREME COURT MAY BE BATTLEGROUND

Violation Of Federal And State Constitutions Charged

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2—(AP)—Laying the groundwork for a possible appeal to the United States supreme court, attorneys for The Council of Illinois Merchants today filed an intervening petition in a suit recently started here to test the constitutionality of the two per cent sales tax.

In addition to claiming that the sales tax violates numerous provisions of the state and federal constitutions, the petition claims the tax was not legally passed in the House of Representatives because Representative Rodman E. Grigsby, Blandinsville Democrat "was not qualified to sit in the legislature."

Called Class Legislation

The petition also attacks the general and special rules issued by the Department of Finance in administering the act, declaring them to be "class legislation, lacking in uniformity and depriving persons of property without due process of law."

Attorneys representing the merchants council are former Circuit Judge Jesse R. Brown of Alton, Roscoe Forth of Granite City, and State Representative I. H. Streeper, Alton.

The suit in which the Merchants' Council is intervening is that brought in the Sangamon county Circuit Court recently on behalf of Gus Reif, a Springfield furniture dealer. This particular suit, it was later indicated, was started at the instance of the Attorney General's office so as "to assure a fair and impartial trial." Having thus got the start on opponents of the sales tax, the Merchants' Council was then invited by the Attorney General's office to intervene.

To U. S. Supreme Court

Allegations in the petition filed today that the sales tax violates several provisions of the federal constitution are considered as paving the way for a possible appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States in event the law is upheld by the Illinois courts.

The petition charges the sales tax act confers unlawful legislative and judicial power upon the state Department of Finance which administers the act.

It attacks the validity of the vote by which the measure was passed in the House of Representatives, contending that Represetative Grigsby, one of those who voted for the measure when it received exactly the number of votes necessary, was not entitled to his seat. Grigsby, the petition charges, was indebted to the state for $4,674.85 in gasoline taxes. The Constitution of the state prohibits any one from holding public office who is indebted to the state.

Delegation of Powers

Delegation of powers to the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, which expends sales tax revenue for relief purposes, was also attacked. The petition charges the act vests the commission with legislative authority in that it is empowered to apportion the monies among the various counties. A further delegation of legislative authority is claimed in that the commission may apportion all the revenue to any one county if it sees fit.

The entire act is branded as violating the state and federal constitutional provisions that nobody shall be deprived of property without due process of law and that the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the government shall be seperate.

General rules for administering the act and 26 special rules, all promulgated by the Department of Finance, are attacked as arbitrary, oppressive, and void.

Arguments Friday

It is also claimed that a provision of the act which empowers the Governor, Treasurer and Auditor to transfer any balance in the sales tax fund to other state funds is a delegation of legislative authority.

The first sales tax act was held unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court on two grounds—delegation of legislative authority to county boards and exemptions. The present act, now under attack was written by Attorney General Otto Kerner in an endeavor to con-

Witnesses Give Insight Into Methods Of Extortionists In Murder Trial Of Union Officer

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—An insight into the way in which racketeers extort money from innocent victims was told from the witness stand at the murder trial of John Rooney, Secretary and Treasurer of the Circular Distributors' Union, and two others, one his sweetheart.

The witness was Joseph Goldblatt, an official of the Goldblatt chain of department stores, and in his testimony yesterday he accused Rooney of forcing him to pay $3,300 for "protection" against vandalism.

And when he finally refused to make further contributions, he said acts of vandalism followed, including the throwing of stench bombs, window smashing and the firing of shots into the stores.

Rooney, with Rosalie Rizzo, 24, and Henry Berry, a business agent of the union, is on trial for the slaying of Stanley Gross last May 23 while he was on duty in front of one of the stores as a special guard.

CHICKENS RETURNED

J. G. Hitchkiss, a farmer residing near Shaws station in Lee Center township last week reported the loss of 100 chickens which were taken from their coops during the night. Deputy Sheriff Ward Miller made an investigation and had uncovered some evidence which might have led to the apprehension of the poultry thieves. Promise of a penitentiary sentence upon the apprehension of the thieves is believed to have had a desired effect as Mr. Hotchkiss yesterday reported to Deputy Miller that his 100 chickens had been returned just as mysteriously as they had been taken.

THREE SCORE EMPLOYERS IN RECOVERY ASSN.

chants of Dixon announce their new hours in accordance with the National Recovery Act.

"Believing that the purpose of this Act is to provide more employment and more buying power they will not shorten their store hours.

"We believe that shortening the store hours to the minimum provided for in the Act will not help unemployment and defeat the purpose of the act. All our employes will work only the 40 hours as provided for in the Act, and in order to give our customers our same satisfactory service we will hire extra help for such times as are needed.

"Therefore beginning August 1st 1933 until further notice our stores will remain open on week days from 8 to 5 and on Saturdays from 8 to 10."

To Discuss Code

President George Murray of the Dixon Automotive Association this morning called a special meeting for Thursday evening at 7:30 at the Nettz & Co., garage on Ottawa avenue of all proprietors of business connected with the automoolle industry in the city. This includes dealers, garagemen, auto repair men, battery shop employes, welders, washers and greasers, tire and accessory dealers and automobile mechanics. The meeting has been called for the purpose of arranging a schedule of operation in compliance with the National Recovery Act and the delegates to the Springfield meeting yesterday will make their reports.

SUBSTITUTE CODE

Springfield, Ill., Aug 2—(AP)—A code independent of one recently adopted by automobile dealers meeting in Chicago was prepared by 300 central and southern Illinois agents meeting here.

It provides for a graduated scale of wages to mechanics depending on the population of the city in which they are located and answers the objections of dealers that the Chicago code was not applicable in its salary provisions to smaller places.

As finally worked out yesterday the code sets a minimum wage for mechanics at 40 cents an hour in towns of less than 10,000 population; 45 cents for a population of from 10,000 to 30,000, and 50 cents in cities of 30,000 to 250,000.

PLAN BUYING DRIVE

Washington, Aug. 2 —(AP)—A major buyers' drive to assure that purchasing power bolstered by the NRA wage-raising-job-creating program will be used to its utmost in stimulating national recovery was promised today by Hugh S. Johnson, pilot of the industrial control machine.

This significant expansion of the government push to obtain better times will be started when "the time is ripe," he said, and was taken to mean as soon as industry and business have complied in sufficient volume with the terms of the voluntary reemployment agreement and of the permanent codes of fair practice to put millions of new money into the country's payrolls.

The movement of industry and business to join the NRA campaign continued in full swing, fresh reports from all over telling of mounting totals of signed agreements.

To Awaken Public

To speed it the administration put underway a general mobilization of campaign committees of state, regional and community leaders to awaken full public support.

Meantime, Johnson spread the application of codes by declaring in force—pending final determination—agreements submitted by the electrical manufacturing, radio, bedding, rayon weaving and rayon yarn manufacturing industries.

What is "Professional?"

Among numerous questions piling in on officials of the recovery administration was one asking for a full definition of the term "professional," as used in the blanket agreement to exempt certain classes of workers from hour limitation; but this was one proposition they could not fully answer off hand.

The administration is following the ordinary application of the term to doctors, lawyers, and so on, and in a recent ruling stated that the term would cover all editorial and newsmen on papers, and the internes, nurses and laboratory technicians of hospitals.

However, Johnson yesterday said the ruling on newspapermen was not a final one. The actual spread of the professional class therefore remains unsettled.

Terrier's Barking Reveals Death Of Mistress In Lake

Cove Neck, N. Y., Aug. 2—(AP)—A pet terrier, barking wildly, last night led to the discovery in a shallow lake of the body of Mrs. Samuel R. Bertron, 67-year-old society matron and wife of a millionaire banker.

The lake, located on "Overbrook," the Bertron estate, is only four feet deep. Physicians concluded that a heart attack overcame Mrs. Bertron on the shores of the lake and that she fell in and drowned. She had suffered previously from a heart ailment.

Mrs. Bertron had dinner last night as usual with her husband, senior member of the banking firm of Bertron, Griscom & Company of Wall Street. Afterward, as was her custom, she set out to stroll on her wide lawns with her airedale.

Neither her husband nor the servants saw her alive again after she left the house.

Band Will Play Request Program On Friday Night

Director R. Mason Lists Special Numbers For This Week

Director Russell Mason of the Dixon Civic Band will present the first all-request program this week when the band presents its ninth concert of the summer season at the court house square Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The overture "Phedre," is one of the most dramatic and colorful in the whole repertoire of music. It is a difficult number and is not generally played by country bands, and in presenting this number by request at Friday evening's concert the Dixon band is establishing a precedent. Another number, the "Suite of Three Morceaux," a flute solo was used by Director Mason when he accompanied Mme. Luella Meluis, grand opera singer in a concert tour. The program for Friday evening's concert is as follows:

March, "World's Fair Century of Progress,"—Leslie Groff.

Overture, "Phedre,"—Jules Massenet.

"Trees" Joyce Kilmer) — Oscar Rasbach.

Characteristic, "Pep" — Arthur Amsden.

Suite, "Three Morceaux" (Opus 116)—Benjamin Godard.

1.—Allegretto.
2.—Idylle.
3.—Valse.

(Flora Horner, accompanist at piano.)

Descriptive, "Hunting Scene,"—Pietro Bucalossi.

Selections from the musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen,"—Gustave Luders.

Encores will include the march, "Black Jack," a novelty, "The Old Grey Mare," and "Remember My Forgotten Man."

The members of the band commission have requested that children refrain from climbing on the temporary stand which is erected for the accommodation of the band at the court house square.

There will be no concert next week, August 11, as the Dixon Civic Band has accepted an invitation to appear at the Century of Progress in Chicago and will play a concert at the court of the Hall of Science. The August 11 concert will be played August 24 at the Loyalty League picnic to be held at Lowell Park.

Woman's Voice Should Express Her Complete Personality

Would the average American woman like to be judged by her voice? Foreign visitors, particularly Englishmen, say that American women have the worst average voices in the world, although they admit that there are notable exceptions, particularly in the Southern states.

A study made for the American Magazine by Vida Sutton shows that few American women realize the importance of their voices in expressing their personalities.

"A woman's voice should express her complete personality," says Miss Sutton. "It should be trained to do this. Under present circumstances, many women try to cover up deficiencies in themselves by the wrong use of their voice. A loud shouting voice for instance, is usually indicative of an effort to cover up a feeling of inferiority. A nasal twang is a sign of a suspicious nature."

Franklin D. Roosevelt's voice is viewed by voice experts as "quick, warm and youthful, bespeaking friendliness and confidence." Woodrow Wilson's voice expressed his personality perfectly "in its dryness and precision it bespoke the college professor, a man apart from the rest of the world". One of the most expressive voices in the modern world of letters, according to the experts was that of Joseph Conrad: "it expressed his whole outlook on life, it had the mystery and power of the sea."

American women, it is urged, should learn to use their voices "honestly," without deceiving affections. According to Miss Sutton: "The voice is our best instrument for revealing our best selves, yet we so frequently neglect it. Women pay more attention to their appearance than to their voice, failing to realize that a larger number of people judge them by how they speak than by how they look."

Sylvia Sidney May Retire from Screen

New York, Aug. 2 —(AP)— The fear that a surgeon's knife may sever her from the films forever was voiced today by Sylvia Sidney as she explained why she left Hollywood in the middle of a picture.

"I underwent one operation in Hollywood for a throat ailment," she said, speaking with difficulty. "If it doesn't take I'll have to have another operation for the complete removal of a gland, which will leave a scar on the outside of my face.

"If that happens it will be impossible for me to go on in pictures. And I can't go on with the picture I was making until I find out.

On Monday Miss Sidney boarded a plane and left Hollywood, where she was making a picture with Maurice Chevalier. Paramount officials, declaring her departure would cost them $100,000, have filed a complaint with the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Miss Sidney was informed on her arrival here last night.

WHEAT GAMBLING TO BE ENDED.

The recent orgy of gambling in wheat and the following spectacular crash of the market will have served a useful purpose if they bring about elimination of some of the evils that have so long characterized grain trading.

And there is evidence that they may. George N. Peek, administrator of the Farm Adjustment Act, minced no words when he told grain dealers that they must set their own house in order or the government would do it for them. He added that this was not just another warning of the sort issued so often in recent years.

"Abuses exist in the grain trades, and they, acting as the marketing medium for the farmers, should correct these abuses," said Peek. "If they do not succeed, then the government will act. . . . I know of no industry other than farming which has nothing to say about the price received for its product."

The Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges have necessary and useful functions for producers, processors and consumers.

But unbridled speculation and violent price fluctuations as the country has recently witnessed are no part of these useful functions.

Farmers, consumers and business generally must have orderly marketing based on laws of supply and demand. Prices must not be inflated or unduly depressed for the profit of men who never produce or process wheat, and whose transactions exist only on paper.

Nor can the government afford to jeopardize its production control program, on which it is spending $100,000,000 for the benefit of wheat growers, by letting speculators reap the benefit.

Fortunately, Administrator Peek has ample authority under new legislation to enforce the government's will. He can license grain exchanges and all other handlers of farm commodities. And he can revoke those licenses, and put the undesirable dealers out of business. Such authority heretofore has been lacking.

The Board of Trade and the grain trade are welcoming federal intervention. The price of wheat has been pegged temporarily and price ranges limited. Meantime lasting remedies for the future can be devised, and this is what the grain trade is attempting to do.

PROTECTING HOME OWNERS.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation has acted with commendable promptness to nip a "racket" through which it was said unscrupulous persons planned to profit at the expense of mortgage-burdened home owners.

Prospective borrowers, the board stated, do not need paid agents to negotiate their loans. Preliminary appraisals of property will be made without cost, and if the loan is granted the subsequent appraisal and examination of title will be made at nominal cost.

And the board warned of provisions in the law under which persons making unjustifiable and unnecessary charges in connection with loans can be punished by a maximum fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Figures from Washington tell a reassuring story of the extent of the pickup in business.

Activity in June and early July was 89 per cent of the 1923-25 average, an increase of 12 per cent over May, and 33 per cent over July of last year. Output of steel, automobiles, shoes, textiles, and many other products increased.

The American Federation of Labor estimates that 1,500,000 persons have found jobs since March. This is a distinct gain, but labor officials point out that 11,500,000 persons still are without work. Success of present efforts of NRA would mean that 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 of these would be employed by September.

There are indications that production is running ahead of consmption, since department store sales in June receded 1 per cent. An appreciable increase in employment would stimulate mass buying power.

Conditions still remain far from normal and the country is by means out of the woods. But the curve is swinging upward.

DIXON SOLDIERS AT CAMP GRANT WANT VISITORS

Friends And Kin Who Visit Them Should Take Own 'Grub'

By Sgt. Wayne Wolf and Corp. James Ketchen

Camp Grant, July 31— We arrived Saturday morning at 10:30. Everything O. K. By 2 o'clock all our tent were pitched and the boys settled down to the camp routine.

Our first day of drill started Monday by getting up at 5 A. M., going through setting up exercises, having breakfast and then going to the drill field at 7 A. M. We drill till 12 o'clock and then eat dinner. The afternoon is spent in washing clothes and cleaning up in general until 5 o'clock when we stand retreat. After retreat we have supper and then the boys do as they please.

Await Visitors

The officers, Capt. Dixon and Lieuts. A. Wimpleberg and D. C. Austin, have been lucky so far in that they have had company while the visitors to the enlisted men's quarters to date have been conspicuous by their absence.

Sergt. A. C. Handell brought his wall-paper designed pajamas to camp this year and they always lend lots of color to an otherwise dead situation. Today while it was raining the Sergeant appeared on the company street with a huge rain hat that he didn't get from the government and now has the name of "Light House Charlie"

Doc. Camery the Ex-Mayor of Ashton says that the camp is "fluffy duff" as he is the ring leader of the game Keeno.

Sergt. Rogers seems to be the only man in camp that will get a vacation as he is the Supply Sgt., and has a tent of his own where he is supposed to issue supplies. He now has it down to a system and only opens a half hour each day.

Sgt. Brown we feel is troubled with a bad case of heart trouble, as he is a very regular visitor in the city of Dixon.

(Shave and a Haircut) James Bales, Jr., and Little Swag Wilhelm were forced to go to church Sunday. Lieut. Austin says the boys enjoyed it very much as no collection was taken.

Athletic Activities

Corporal Julian has organized a complete group of athletes to compete in all camp activities. The famous "Killer" Hess was scheduled to make a killing this evening but on account of the rain the killing was postponed until Wednesday night.

The company boxing gloves were initiated this evening by Lawrence Dunseth, 280 lbs. and Harry Dockery, 107 lbs. After three heated rounds the bout was declared a draw as both boys were out of wind.

After attending camp for six consecutive years and being a good boy our honorable company clerk, Sgt. Peterson is now allowed to go to the city of Rockford all alone. Sgt. Peterson showed his superiority today by getting a payroll out without an error. This is something unusual.

Sgt. Ramsey was very much troubled today as he received a mysterious letter from Chicago. The question is whether the correspondent was male or female. Ramsey has his opinion and so have we.

No Visitors At Mess

In case any of the home folks come up to visit it will be well to bring a lunch basket well filled. Due to the economy program the soldiers are not allowed to take visitors to mess with them.

The camp visitors today were Frank Kreim and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lindell.

The Captain's mother, Mrs. H. G. Dixon and Mrs. Van Nuys and sons, John and Tom, were also visitors.

By the way, we read where the Cubs lost a double-header.

Everyday Religion

WHO SAID CHUCK IT!

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

Clarence Darrow said recently, speaking to young folk just starting out: "If I were a young man today, with life ahead of me, I think I'd chuck it all, the way things are now. The odds are too great against you, and anyway, the world is all wrong."

What utter rot for a wise man to talk! If everybody acted upon such idiotic advice, what would the world be like? Or suppose Darrow himself had followed such folly in days gone by. But his life-story tells us a very different tale, as does his novel called "Farmington," so widey read. He did not practice what he now preaches. Far from it!

Instead, he fought his way through, in spite of heavy odds, and won out. He did not falter or whine, much less "chuck it all." There was a day when he had to choose between feathering his own nest, or taking the side of the under-dog. He took the part of the weak, and his best battles have been fought when the odds were greatest against him.

Why, then, discourage those who are just starting out? Why empty ice water upon youth, which too easily gives way to dismay as it is? To be sure, it may have been only a dark mood, or the pose of a professional pessimist, a role which he likes to play. In any case such nonsense is out of order and a sensible man ought to chuck it.

No doubt things are bad, but "things have to be somehow," an old colored man once said to me. If they are bad, they can be made better. The odds were against Lincoln, too, but he was not a quitter. They were against Jeanne Chaix, a little French girl — her mother insane, her father ill, no money but what she made in a pasteboard factory. But she won the price of the French Academy, "by the sole force of her valiant will!"

In short, she was a healthy-minded girl. She had faith and she refused to give up. Life had done hard things to her, but she did not get sore, much less sour. Her religion was real and did things for her in her struggle. It did not matter if the world was all wrong, she was all right. She chucked her weakness and fear, and won the battle.

Daily Health Talk

THE MOUTH BATTERY

In 1786 the famous Italian scientist, Luigi Galvani, demonstrated that an electric battery could be made by bringing two dissimilar metals into association through a suitable liquid medium.

It appears that the fundamental law of electro-physics discovered by Galvani operates in the mouth as well as in an electric battery.

When dental restorations such as filling, crowns, bridges and plates are made of different metals, they are brought into association through the medium of saliva, and a measurable electric current is set up.

Prof. Everett S. Lain, of the University of Oklahoma, recently reported a study of 300 cases, in which a variety of local and constitutional disturbances could be traced to the setting up of electrical streams by dentures of different metals.

The symptoms found in the patients examined were numerous. They included acute and chronic inflammations, blanched and grayish patches, erosions and ulcers.

The patient sometimes complained of a metallic or salty taste in the mouth, burning or stinging sensations at the margins, the end or sometimes the back of the tongue, and dryness and tickling in the throat.

Approximately 80 per cent of the patients reported increased salivation. Most of the symptoms were more perceptible in the early morning, after the mouth had been closed for a long period of time.

A typical case is that of a woman, aged 32, who had two large amalgam fillings in the lower side of the jaw. They caused her no discomfort until a large gold filling was placed in an upper right tooth opposite the amalgams.

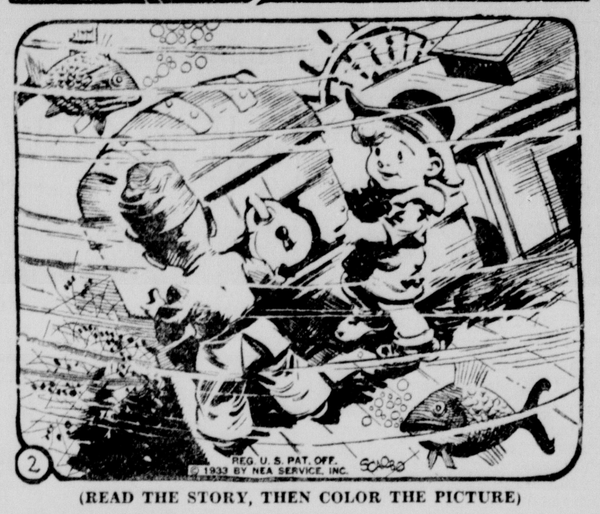

Immediately thereafter she began to suffer with electric nerve shocks, when the upper gold and the lower amalgam came into contact with each other.

She was relieved of her condition when the amalgams were removed and the restorations were replaced with gold.

THE TINYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN — Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Right through the porthole wee Scouty crawled. Inside the ship he sprawled. "Hey, are you hurt?" cried Coppy, who was crawling inside, too.

"You surely took a funny slide, first on your back, then on your side." "Oh, I am all right," wee Scouty laughed. "It was a silly thing to do.

"You see, I simply lost my hold and down into the ship I rolled. Gee, hurry up and join me so we both can look around.

"I see a great big cabin door. That's one place where we will explore. I'm really very anxious, now, to see what can be found."

They crept right through the strange old wreck. Then Coppy said, "Let's go on the deck. Right now we're in the hold. So far we haven't found a thing.

"Behind that door I took a look and all I found was some old book. Let's find the captain's cabin and see what luck that will bring."

So, up a stairway they both went, and 'bout a half an hour was spent in searching all around the ship. "I guess we're fooled," said one.

"We've had no luck at all, as yet. Someone was here before us, I will bet. We'd best go back and join the bunch. This isn't any fun."

Just then, however, wee Scouty cried, "Here is one more room. Gee! Look inside! I see a rusty treasure chest. Right here is where we stop.

"Come on, we'll take the chest with us. There's no one here to start a fuss. We'll drag it to the railing of the ship and let it drop.

"Oh, gee, I wonder what's inside," cried Coppy. And then they reached the railing. Scouty yelled, "Look out below!

"We'll drop this thing and then we will all rest." Wee Goldy said "Gee, it's a chest! It may contain a lot of gold. We'll very shortly know."

A BOOK A DAY

"Instead of Dictatorship," by Henry Hazlitt, proposes one of the most far-reaching political reforms ever suggested in this country; and if, as I suspect, it will win a few converts, it at least is qualified to serve the very useful purpose of stirring up a lot of wholesome discussion.

Mr. Hazlitt points, first of all, to the inescapable fact that our present form of federal government is exceedingly clumsy and inefficient. But he does not believe that these faults are inherent in democracy itself; they arise, he says, simply because our governmental framework creates them.

In place of president and Congress, Mr. Hazlitt would have a national council of 12 legislators, chosen at large by proportional representation.

If any candidate got more than half the first-choice votes, he would be president; if not, the council would elect one of its own number president. The right of veto would be greatly modified. All hands would stand for re-election every two years.

All of this may not appeal to you very greatly. But it does provoke thought about the fundamentals of our government and for that reason it seems to me to be a useful as well as readable, little article.

4-H Club Exhibit To Be Held At Oregon On The Same Day

Ogle County Farm Bureau picnic and annual 4-H Club Exhibit will be held at the Fair Grounds, Oregon, Saturday, August 26, according to an announcement from the Farm Bureau office.

Ed. O'Neal, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation has been engaged as the speaker. The program committee is busy arranging for music, games and other forms of entertainment which will make it a delightful day of recreation.

The 4-H Club boys and girls will exhibit their calves, pigs, and clothing as they have previously done at the Annual Fair. HUBBBELL BROKE RECORD OF OVER 25 YRS. TUESDAY

Ran Record Of Scoreless Inning Up To 46 Yesterday

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Hubbell held a new National League shutout record today but his five-game winning streak had come to an end and as a result the New York Giants' lead over the onrushing Pittsburgh Pirates had shrunk alarmingly

Starting with 40⅓ consecutive shutout innings behind him, Hubbell went on yesterday until he had cracked Ed Reulbach's 25-year-old National League record of 44 Then the heat and the Boston Braves' batters go to him in the sixth; Boston scored two runs to end the streak at 46 innings and went on to beat the Giants 3 to 1 The defeat, with Pittsburgh's 9-3 slaughter of the St Louis Cardinals, cut the Giants' lead to 2½ games.

In Rare Form

Hubbell was in his best form at the start, giving only two hits up to the sixth. Then Bill Urbanski, Buck Jordan and Randy Moore smacked him for singles that scored two runs, ruined Hubbell's streak and won the ball game. Buck Betts went the route for the Braves.

Reulbach's old record which stood since 1908, included the Cub pitcher's great feat of blanking Brooklyn twice in one day. The major league mark of 56 innings was made by Walter Johnson in 1913.

The Pirates hardly needed more than the first inning to chalk up their eighth straight victory as they assaulted Bill Walker for five runs, they went on and hit Dazzy Vance hard and wound up with a little impromptu fist throwing between Steve Swetonic and George Watkins as the result of Swetonic's hitting Leo Durocher with a pitched ball in the seventh. It lasted just long enough for them to be chased from the game.

Cards Drop Notch

The Cardinals skidded into fourth place again as the Chicago Cubs broke a six game losing streak with a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Pat Malone held the Reds to five hits while the Cubs bunched five hits for all their runs in the third.

In the only American League game, the Cleveland Indians slid off into a fourth place tie with the Detroit Tigers as the Browns rapped Monte Pearson in the early innings and cosaed to a 5-2 victory behind Sam Gray's fine pitching.

IRISH AMATEUR BOXERS TO MEET CHICAGO CHAMPS

50,000 Fans Expected To Witness Bouts This Evening

Chicago, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Eight fighting Irish right from the 'ould sod,' Free State and amateur boxing champs, will meet Chicago's Golden Glove winners tonight at Soldier Field, in the third annual international bouts.

A crowd of 50,000, which would be a record for the event, is expected to watch the Irish lads, ranging from 112-pound Paddy Connolly to 6 foot 7 inch Patrick Mulligan, battle the pick of 5,000 midwestern amateurs. The invaders won the right to represent the Free State by winning their way through a series of tournaments; and proved their fitness by defeating the champions of Italy, six bouts to two, before sailing for the United States.

Two years ago, in the first international bouts, the Chicagoans defeated the champions of France, five bouts to three, before 40,000 spectators. Last year another group of Golden Gloves winners tied with Germany's amateur titleholders, with 45,000 looking on.

The pairings:

112 pounds—Paddy Connolly vs. Lennie Cohen, Chicago.

118 pounds—Frank Kerr vs Bud Ginter, Chicago.

126 pounds— Paddy Hughes vs George Van Der Heyden, South Bend., Ind.

135 pounds—Ernie Smith vs Eddie Ward, Chicago.

147 pounds — John Kennedy vs Billy Celebron, Rockford.

160 pounds— Paddy Hennelly vs Fred Caserio, Chicago.

175 pounds — Dick Hearns vs. Max Marek, Chicago.

Heavyweight — Paddy Mulligan vs John Pacek, Chicago.

Two Replacements Made In City Loop

Two teams of the city soft ball league have tossed up their franchises and have been replaced, the schedule for the third round of play now proceeding unhampered. The Standard Dairy made their first appearance Monday evening at the south field where they won a hard fought game from the Beier Loafers. The Dairymen have taken the place vacated by the Curran's Grocers.

The Reynolds Wire Company have entered a team under the captaincy of Frank Trotter which will be seen in action this evening for the first time against the league leading City Dudes at the Singer Field. Another team, the West Enders have applied for a berth in the league.

"Big Train" Slaps Fine On Hildebrand

Cleveland, Aug. 2 — (AP) — Oral Hildebrand, leading pitcher on the Cleveland Indians, was under the ban of an indefinite susupension today and ordered by Manager Walter Johnson to pay a $100 fine for a temperamental display of temper in St. Louis Monday.

The fine was ordered when Hildebrand hurled the resin bag to the ground in disgust at being removed from the box after he walked three men and allowed one hit in the wild seventh inning 8-run rally that enables the Brown to win 12 to 8. Smarting under that order, the young pitcher exchanged hot words with Johnson before yesterday's game n St. Louis and was ordered suspended indefinitely.

"I hope this fine will make him see he has to subordinate his feelings to the good of the team," Johnson said.

Hildebrand said he would present his case before General Manager Billy Evans here tomorrow.

E. Moline Boxer Scores Quick K. O.

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—Evan if it did not qualify as a record, Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, today had a 47-second knockout victory to his credit.

Leonard needed only two punches, a left to the body and a right to the jaw, to use up Joe Reguzzoni of Detroit, in the scheduled eight round final bout at Western Stadium last night.

The shortest fight on record in the United States was battling Nelson's 12-second knockout of Willie Rossler at Harvey, Ill., in 1902. Jack Dempsey polished off Fred Fulton at Harrison, N. J., in 18 seconds, in 1918.

PORTLAND, ORE. SPORTS WRITER LEADS GOLFERS

Breaks Eastmoreland Course Record In Public Links

Portland, Ore., Aug. 2—(AP)—Talbot (Tab) Boyer, a Portland sports writer, has demonstrated he can play golf as well as record the achievements of others on the links.

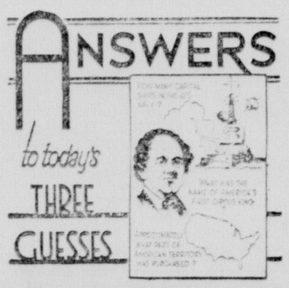

He toured the Eastmoreland course in 68 yesterday to lead by three strokes for the first half of the qualifying round for the National Public Links golf tournament. At least 71 others were in a position to gain a place in the select 32 for championship match play after the qualifying ends today. Par is 72.

Boyer cracked his own course record at Eastmoreland when he clipped two strokes off each nine to post his sensational 68. His former mark in competition was 71, the score of Robert Tomes, Long Beach, who won second honors on the first 18 holes.

Charles Ferrera, San Francisco, 1931 champion, equalled par as did Bob Hofer, Park Rose, Ore.

Robert Lee Miller, the defending champion from Jacksonville, Fla., had a 74. His putting was erratic on the outward nine and he took 41 but a 30-foot putt for an eagle three on the tenth restored his confidence and he came home in 33.

Of the 71 figured in the running 47 were from the Pacific coast and the other 24 from various other corners of the country.

There are 14 CAPITAL SHIPS in the U. S. Navy. The sketch is of PHINEAS T. BARNUM. Approximately 60 PER CENT of all American territory was purchased.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—While the membership of the Senate and House probably is composed chiefly of those who are now or have been engaged actively in the practice of law, other professions have their share of representatives in the national legislature.

One of the ranking professions is journalism.

In the present Senate alone there are 11 men who are now or have been during their careers either editors or publishers, or both, of newspapers. In the House upwards of 27 have had active association with this profession.

Virginia leads by having both of her Senators newspapermen. Carter Glass owns the Lynchburg Advance and the Lynchburg News. Harry Flood Byrd publishes the Winchester Star.

Capper, Republican of Kansas, is editor and publisher of the Topeka Daily Capital. Vandenberg of Michigan was editor and publisher of the Grand Rapids Herald.

CANCTUM TO SENATE—

Dill of Washington was once a reporter on the Cleveland Press and Cleveland Plain Dealer. Nye of North Dakota has been publisher of four newspapers in various sections of the northwest.

Murphy of Iowa has been a reporter and editor for 20 years. Cutting of New Mexico at first was president of a publishing corporation and later publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican and the El Nuevo Mexicana.

Bailey of North Carolina was editor of the Biblical Recorder from 1893 to 1907. Fess of Ohio has been editor of a newspaper as well as an author.

In the House, Ford of California was magaizne and literary editor of the Los Angeles Times until 1929. Deen of Georgia is editor and proprietor of a weekly newspaper.

Wearin of Iowa is the author of a weekly farm service. Musselwhite of Michigan is owner, editor and publisher of the Manistee (Mich.) Advocate.

—AND SO ON—

Shoemaker of Minnesota was editor and publisher of the People's Voice in Green Bay, Wisconsin, from 1921-27, and on the Organized Farmer at Red Wing, Minn. Christianson of Minnesota is owner of the Dawson Sentinel, which he has published for 15 years.

The veteran Edgard Howard of Nebraska, who resembles William Jennings Bryan in personal appearance, publishes the Columbus Daily Telegram.

Schrugham of Nevada published the Nevada State Journal from 1927 to 1932.

Focht of Pennsylvania publishes a weekly in Lewisburg and is president of a publishing company.

NORMAN H. ORR, Managing Editor if the Yonkers (N. Y.) Record, says:

"Although many merchants today could save their business from bankruptcy by a little newspaper advertising, they 'save money' by hoping customers will come to their store.

"Just to advertise will not do in these days of careful spending. Keeping your name before the public went out with the idea of having an automobile for every member of the family. Today you must advertise 'price'—it is the only thing prospective customers are interested in. They will go where they are told and where the fact is proven that they will get what they want for less.

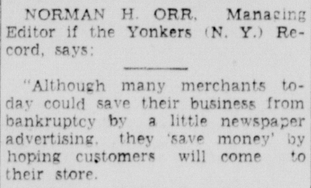

"Hence, the merchant who is wise enough to take generous space and fill it with one or two illustrations, little reading matter and a cheap price in large type, will get results.

"Business is bad, but there is some being done and the merchant who goes after it in the right way is the one who will get most of it.

"Never make the mistake of thinking you save money by cutting out newspaper advertising.

"Don't throw money away by just buying space. Let somebody who knows up-to-date advertising methods prepare your copy and go to it.

"Get the jump on the other fellow, who is sitting back waiting for business to improve."

One Year Ago Today — Tom Hampson of Great Britain gave England her first win in the Olympic by finishing first in the 800-meter run in the record time of 1.49 8-10.

Five Years Ago Today—The Finnish runner, Harry Larva, broke the 1500-meter run record set by Paavo Nurmi, pacing off the distance in 3.53 1-5.

Ten Years Ago Today —While Waite Hoyt was allowing Indian batters only six hits, the Yanks got to Jim Edwards for 13, and the Gothamites won a ball game, 4-2.

SHIELDS SHOWS OLD TIME FORM LAST FORTNIGHT

Is Apparently Man to Beat In Meadow Club Tourney

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 2—(AP)—Back on his game once more, big Frank Shields appeared today to be the man to beat for the singles championship of the Meadow Club's 43rd annual invitation tennis tournament.

The 22-year-old New Yorker apparently has struck his real stride in the last two weeks, winning the Crescent-Hamilton invitation title and the Ceabright Bowl in succession, but he reserved his finest display of tennis for the second round of the Meadow Club tournament yesterday.

Pitted against Herbert L. Bowman, Shields swept through the veteran without the loss of a game. It was the first time in Bowman's long tournament experience that he had failed to win at least one game.

Shield's victory sent him into the quarter-finals along with the defending champion, Sidney B. Wood of New York; Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, national indoor champion; Frankie Parker, national clay courts king; Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, inter-collegiate title-holder; Dick Murphy of Utica, N. Y.; John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, and Bryan Grant of Atlanta.

The quarter-finals in singles will be played tomorrow with Wood arrayed against Tidball, Parker against Murphy, Shields against McDiarmid and Mangin against Grant.

Doubles play was to hold exclusive sway today. George M. Lott, who arrived with the rest of the Davis Cup squad yesterday, was to team up with Wood in this branch of play.

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with BARRETT COLVIN, 38, but her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER shoots BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Sexton fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of Lida's lies, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. Barrett has a ward, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, Marcia Radnor. Barrett has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story. Lida Stafford discovers the child's existence.

Elinor's father dies. Barrett takes her to Cuba and the trip is a happy one. After their return Lida tells Elinor about Barrett's ward, inferring the boy is Barrett's son.

Elinor asks about the child but, because of his promise to Marcia, Barrett cannot explain. Misunderstandings between the two increase. Barrett decides to join an expedition to South America. Elinor finds a house in the country and plans to go there and make a home for the boy.

Marcia's infant son dies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

ELINOR broke the silence. She said in a hesitating, uncertain tone, "Barrett—"

He turned toward her. "Yes?" he answered.

"Do you want—very much—to go on that expedition?"

"No, but I thought perhaps you'd rather have me out of the way. That was the only reason I considered it."

"I'd rather you didn't go," she said slowly.

"Oh, Elinor!" He had risen and stood with eager, pleading eyes fixed on hers.

But she was not yet ready to tell him the truth—that she loved him and wanted his happiness more than her own, that she wanted him near when their child was born.

"I think you ought to become better acquainted with your boy—with Gerald," she said, her voice hard again.

"You mean that I should be with you in the country?" he questioned quickly.

"Yes. Don't you think so?"

"If it won't bother you to have me there," he said slowly. For a moment he had hoped for so much more than that. He added, still in that weary tone, "I love you more deeply than you'll ever know, Elinor. The one thing I want is your happiness."

Then quickly he left the room. Elinor cried stormily, sitting huddled in the big chair which made her look so small. For the first time since her mother had told her about Barrett's ward, shame prompted some of those tears. She was small, she knew. Small! And she could not seem to help being so. If she stretched a hand toward Barrett she would see another misty hand go out to him. If she dreamed of kissing him again she saw another woman held close in his arms.

She groped her way upstairs later and for a time in her room stood by the closed door, wanting to open it. She wanted desperately to say to Barrett, "I love you, I love you! I want you to be happy. That's all that matters!"

But she could not do it.

* * *

DAYS passed in which Elinor shopped to equip the new house in the country. She began the task eagerly, glad to have something to occupy her time, something to think about. Soon, however, that first interest paled. She could not take heart in furnishing a home where Barrett and she were to meet as strangers. And she could not forget the misery in her heart while salesmen and women displayed draperies, furniture and rugs.

Bessie Thrope came to the rescue. Bessie was constantly at hand with helpful advice. For her the shopping expeditions were a source of delight that would have been quite complete if Bessie had not been worried about Elinor. She didn't like the girl's listlessness and disinterest. It wasn't anything that one could talk about and that made the situation worse.

Small Gerald arrived to take his place in the household and, from the moment she first saw him, Elinor's heart warmed toward the child. He, at least, was in no way responsible for the state of affairs.

All three of them went out to the home in the country. Higgins went with them and soon had the household routine running smoothly and efficiently. There were duties to occupy much of Elinor's time, hours she spent with Bessie and hours with Gerald. A small room on the ground floor had been fitted up as a study for Barrett and he did much of his work there, though he drove to the city frequently.

One evening after a long day of work at his desk he wandered to the porch at the side of the house where Gerald, with Elinor's help, was making a fish net from some bits of string. Just as with human relations, the string would tangle disastrously now and then.

"Sexton and I are going fishing tomorrow," Gerald told him, "and Aunt Elinor's helping me make this net." He was struggling over it and his speech slowed with the struggle.

Barrett looked down at the work and workers, his heart touched. Elinor had done so much for the small boy. He was like a different child since they had come here and he adored Elinor.

* * *

FROM down the hill Sexton whistled a bob-white call—the boys' secret signal which half the neighborhood understood perfectly.

Gerald was up in an instant. "It's Sexton," he said eagerly. "May I go, Aunt Elinor? We have to dig bait!"

"Of course, dear," she answered, "but be back in time to make yourself tidy for dinner."

He kissed her, made a pugnacious, boyish pass at Barrett and was off, whooping down the hillside.

The strain settled that always appeared when Gerald left them alone together.

"May I sit down?" Barrett asked. "I want to talk to you about something."

"Do," she said, head bent above the net.

"I wondered if you wouldn't like to ask Bob Telfare out for some week-end — or perhaps longer," he suggested. It wasn't easy but he had done it! Thank God, he'd managed to get the words out.

"Bob's been a good friend," Elinor answered levelly. "I'd like to have him come but not unless you care to have him—"

"Your home is the place for your friends," Barrett said.

"It's your home, too."

"Let's have him next Sunday if he'll come."

"If you like," she agreed. He could not help but warm to the fact that she seemed to care so little. "I'm still rottenly jealous," he thought remorsefully.

"Did you see Marcia when you were in town yesterday?" Elinor asked. She had hardly seen Barrett since his return. She and the Thropes had had a moonlight picnic on the beach the night before and when they had returned Barrett had been working.

* * *

ELINOR had learned, seeing the door of his study closed, that her whole day had been lived through with the thought of a moment's talk with him. The closed door had made her feel like a child for whom there is no convincingly close tomorrow. She had gone to bed to lie there wakefully thinking. "He may be at work again before I get down in the morning—unless I'm up early."

Barrett preferred to avoid encountering her unless it was necessary. Seeing her made everything so much more difficult. A hundred times he had been close to blurting out the truth of Marcia's secret. He wanted to tell her, to say, "What do I care about a promise? What do I care for honor? Nothing matters to me but you and your love!"

But he could not allow himself to do that. He had made his vow to Marcia.

Now he said in answer to Elinor's question about Marcia, "I ran in to see her for a few minutes."

"How are things?"

"Bad," he told her.

She caught her breath. Fright darkened the blue eyes. "Poor Marcia!" Elinor whispered.

"Yes, poor girl! Dick's about at the end of his rope. He wants her to get out of the house, begin to take some interest in life, but she doesn't want to. Twice he's found her in the nursery unconscious—"

Barrett studied Elinor then with a deep concern. He had noticed before how deeply distressed she seemed over Marcia's tragedy and it troubled him.

"Marcia has spoken of coming out here to see you," he said quickly.

"I'd be glad to have her," Elinor said warmly. "Tell her to come any time."

Again she raised her eyes to Barrett's and again he thought, "What do I care for a promise? How can I keep a vow that is making you miserable?"

But he did not tell her. Instead, with a few murmured words, he went back to his study.

MODERN MERRIWELL

The Yankees consigned a pitcher named Johnny Broaca to their Newark farm the other day for seasoning. But in some respects Johnny Broaca needs no seasoning at all. The story back of that is this:

One day last spring the veteran major leaguer, "Smoky Joe" Wood, looked over his crop of budding young pitchers at Yale. An important ball game with a picked team of town players led by Albie Booth was about to begin. Naturally Yale didn't want to be beaten by the "townies," so Coach Wood called over his star pitcher whose name happend to be Johnny Broaca.

"You work today, Johnny," said Coach Joe.

* * *

"PARDON ME, JOE"

But Johnny, who had pitched a game a few days before, had a different idea. "No, coach," replied Johnny. "I'm not going to ruin my arm for you, Yale or anybody else. I'm not going to pitch more than once a week."

"Either you pitch or turn in your uniform," snapped the coach.

"You win the uniform," was Johnny Broacas reply.

Forthwith Johnny Broaca walked off the playing field and finished in Chapter One what promised to be the story of a brilliant college baseball career.

* * *

ENTER THE VILLIAN

A scout for the Yankees happens to be the heavy villian behind the scenes. The scout had watched Johnny pitch several games and the two had met one dark night at the old mill near the crossroads. The scout unfolded the golden possibilities of a major league career.

Frank Merriwell probably would have poked the scout in the nose and would have gone back to the campus and pitched three doubleheaders in successive days for dear old Eli. But Johnny Broaca listened to the scout whose message was something like this:

"You go ahead and finish your school work, and when you're ready to come we're ready to take you. And take care of your arm. Don't pitch more than once a week. Don't work in wet weather."

Johnny Broaca may become one of the greatest pitchers the Yankees ever had. Or he may prove at Newark that he's only another minor leaguer, just as many other promising college pitchers have done.

Anyway, Johnny Broaca has decided what he wants.

The raining of fish, occasionally reported in different parts of the world, is the result of small fish being sucked up from the water by waterspouts and carried a distance before falling back to earth.

The present strength of the British Royal Air Force is 2600 officers, including 2200 pilots and 22,000 of other rank.

Amateurs To Have Horseshoe Tourney All Of Their Own

Chcago, Aug. 2—(AP)—The amateur horseshoe pitcher is about to cut in on the attention the professionals have monopolized heretofore.

A committee of five members headed by R. B. Howard of London, O., was appointed last night at the final meeting of the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association of America to see that the amateurs be given a championship tournament. Previous tournaments have been held for the pros, who recently finished a battle for $1600 in cash prizes at the World Fair grounds. The major share of the prize money went to Ted Allen of Alhambra, Calif., who took the national title away from Blair Nunamaker of East Cleveland, O.

The committee's aim is to build up the amateur side of the old fashioned game to a point where it may be included in the schedule of the A. A. U.

GREATEST OF ALL SHOWS AT ROCKFORD 4th

Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey's Shows There On Friday

The Greatest Show on Earth, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus—this season celebrating the Golden Jubilee of the Ringling Brothers, who fifty years ago began their triumphed march to world circus supremacy—is definitely scheduled to exhibit Rockford, Aug. 4.

Outstanding among the almost countless new features of the Golden Jubilee performances is the most magnificent opening spectacle ever produced by this colossus among amusement enterprises. It is an authentic and dazzling reproduction of The Durbar, the world famous coronation ceremonial at Delhi, India. The Ringling Bros. & Barnum Bailey Pageantry, opulent and staggering in its immensity, employs over 2,000 people and animals, including fifty elephants in gem-studded coronation robes and lavish headdresses. East Indian Marimbo and British Imperial foot guard bands ,scores of festival tongas, bearing rajahs and ranees, will be in the van of the pageant. A golden temple, designed by Gandi Moodi of Delhi, ornate ceremonial cars and gorgeous royal howdahs add immeasurably to the splendor of The Durbar.

Vying with the resplendent impressiveness of The Durbar is the most unusual and weird importation that even The Greatest Show on Earth ever brought out of the Orient—the Royal Padaung giraffe-neck women from Burma. These strange oriental women, with their incredibly long necks encircled with brass and copper rings, carrying sixty pounds of copper ornaments on their arms and legs, are unbelievably aloof from all mankind. They are like no other racial group in all the teeming East. The rings, soldered upon their necks, are constantly superimposed from infancy until maturity, until these doe-eyed oriental beauties resemble nothing so much as the giraffe. Never was so sensational a feature exhibited in the main performance of the Ringling Bros & Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus.

The great Con Colleano tumbling, forward-somersaulting tight wire star, has been recalled from European triumphs to join the Big Show constellation of stars, as has the famous Alfredo Codona, world's only triple mid-air somersaulter to a sensational catch. Vabanque, French leap-of-death trapezist is a new star. Marcellus' Parisian Flying Ballet; the Uyeno, Yaccpi, Danwill, Rubio, Ben Hamid somersaulting acrobatic troupes; the Wallenda and Gretona high wire thrillers; the Flying Codonas, Concellos and Harolds ;the riding Riefenachs, Walters and Davenports; Dorothy Herbert, world's most sensational horsewoman; Maximo and Mijares, slack wire stars; Zacchini, human projectile; Lucita Leers, aerial star, and Al Powell, flying bowknot—these are a few of the headliners among the better known acts. There are 100 of the world's most famous clowns in the Golden Jubilee gala performances.

It is your duty to carry Accident Insurance. If you use an automobile you can protect your family to the amount of $1,000 for 1 year for $1.25. 1t

The roll call will be "Your Favorite Recreation." Election of officers for the coming year will be a part of the business session.

We always look forward to the August picnic at Mrs. Weybright as one of the "high lights" of the year, and we are sure that this will be no exception.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.—St. John 8-7.

How Happy Couple Lost 71 Pounds Ugly Fat

ATE BIG MEALS--USED NO DRUGS--Did Not EXERCISE ---Now Feel Wonderful!

Mrs. Norwell Was 165 lbs. Lost 44 lbs. Now 121 lbs.

Mr. Norwell Was 170 lbs. Lost 27 lbs. Now 143 lbs.

"The 'unbelievable' has happened and I want to give you all the credit and praise it is possible to give. For years I and my husband have been classed as a "plump couple." I weighed 165 pounds and my husband weighed 170 pounds. We had so much sly fun poked at us that we finally decided to take off weight if we had to starve to do it.

We read your advertising and decided to follow your reducing method. I bought a large jar Sleepy Salts and both of us, my husband and I, started taking that morning dose. We also followed your advice about eating—just cut down on the sweets and potatoes—really I ate more than I did before because I didn't have that fear I was putting on more fat.

In two months I had lost a total of 44 pounds, now weighing 121 pounds. My husband had lost at the same time 27 pounds and now weighs 143 pounds, which is his natural weight. Both of us feel wonderful, too.

Your treatment is like you say—as simple as "drinking water." I really am so happy and we are having such a good time. We're on the go all the time, folks tell us that we act more like we were keeping company than married.

The enclosed picture of my husband and myself shows how well we look. Again I say that it is "unbelievable" that we should have lost so much fat. You should have seen us before we started to reduce."

(Signed) Mrs. Henry Norwell, 5326 Winthrop, Chicago, Ill.

LATEX

MAKES RIVERSIDE TIRES

Blow-out Proof!

They're built to prevent cord separation—the cause of blowouts!

When you drive your car at high speed, the heat inside your tire is terrific! In many tires this heat causes cords to separate—makes blisters—weakens your tire. When you hit a bump or rock . . . BANG!—a blowout! Riverside's cords—the HEART of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every single cord of every ply is dipped in LATEX—expensive, 100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This cements Riverside's cords into a single strong unit. It gives Riverside the strongest tire carcass made—prevents separation, the cause of blowouts! Riverside tires are as blowout proof as science and money can make them!

Positive 2-Way Skid Protection

For greater safety, Riverside's Center Traction Tread gives both forward and sidewise skid protection! This is a patented Riverside feature that took over 3 years to perfect. We have not licensed any other manufacturer to use it. And you'll find Riverside's non-skid safety tread is wider! That means up to 40% more rubber on the road than in other famous makes. Riversides are safer—because you can stop quicker! Save with safety on Riversides!

Why We Guarantee To Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Ward's low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

Ward's Unlimited Guarantee

There's nothing half-way nor half-hearted about Riverside's guarantee! Every single Riverside tire is guaranteed to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good and extra safe to be backed by the strongest guarantee tire ever written.

Gives 8% to 36% Longer Wear

A secret process which mixes just-the-right percentage of "Carbon-black" with the finest rubber gives Riversides their granite-like strength and toughness. Tests prove that this formula, one of the most carefully guarded in the industry, gives Riversides from 8% to 36% longer wear.
